How did you find CCE? _____

Canada College of Education reserves the right to modify courses, programs, plans and policies without advance notice and at its sole discretion. CCE reserves the right to suspend, modify or cancel any program or course if enrolment numbers are deemed insufficient, or for any other unpredicted reasons. International students who have received a letter of admission from CCE will only be eligible for a tuition fee refund if they present the refusal letter from Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada (IRCC). In the event of tuition fee refunds, CCE must apply a 4% + deduction from the student's tuition fee as appropriate to any bank charges. The letter of admission will be emailed to accepted students. If you require the original letter, then a $175 shipping fee will be applied in addition to the registration fee. Canadian students may be eligible for a refund only if requested immediately following the first class session and prior to the second session. Students are responsible for their own accommodations, insurance, transportation and other policies. Disclaimer: Any transaction on line may be subject to some degree of vulnerability. Canada College of education takes no responsibility regarding the security of credit card information submitted online. If this is an issue please use another method of payment.
